

At INREV we enjoy continuous development and knowledge sharing, both with our members as well as our team. Part of this is that we love working with students of different disciplines and backgrounds. While they help us with the day-to-day work, and bring the latest knowledge from the studies they are involved in, INREV provides insights into non-listed real estate and all the services that we offer to our members.

Students generally work with us one or more days a week, depending on their schedule and the role they have in our organisation. Departments students could be working in: Marketing and Communications, Research and Market Information or Professional Standards.

The knowledge/background we are looking for depends on the department where we have an opening, but we are often on the lookout for students studying:

- Marketing & Communications
- Geography
- Business Analytics
- Economics and Business Economics
- Real Estate Finance
- Event Management
- Spatial, Transport and Environmental Economics
